

The BonBonerie CAFE

The History

Afternoon Tea did not exist before the 19th century. At that time lunch was eaten quite early in the day and dinner wasn't served until 8 or 9 o'clock at night. Around 1830 Anna, the seventh Duchess of Bedford, asked for tea and light refreshments in her room one afternoon, and the ritual began. The Duchess enjoyed her 'taking of tea' so much that she started inviting her friends to join her. Before long having elegant tea parties became very fashionable.

Our Menu

Our Afternoon Tea is served on three tiers creating a beautiful presentation & a variety of choices.

Scones: the first tier is for fresh fruit, fruit bread and scones accompanied by jam and clotted cream*

Savories: are served on the second tier*

For the adults, we present warm quiche dill biscuits and finger sandwiches.

For the children, we serve peanut butter & jelly and turkey and cheese sandwiches

Sweets: The third tier contains a chocolate and a non-chocolate pastry and tea cookies for adults.*
